

Wayne Degering stars with 37pts

By Dennis Fuller 14-08-2011

In good conditions at Emerald Golf Club last Saturday Wayne Degering (19) was the star when his 37 stableford points saw him atop the leaders block in B Grade and over-all. He has been close a time or two lately and it just seemed a matter of time...which it was.

His playing partner, Mark Starick (14) was the top dog in A Grade when he played to his handicap for 36 points.

The C Grade bandits had a bad, bad day when last man standing, Ken Sumsion (30) won the day with only 31 points. Bloody hell Scotty you had a great chance for glory and you blew it.

Ryan Aitken had 36 points while Travis Broadway, Graham White and Ross Martin all carded 35.

Broadway was nearest the pin on the 4th, Alan Ecclestone on the 7th, Ryan Aitken the 12th, Degering the 13th and Dean Aitken plonked the ball right near the pin to win the pro pin on the 18th.

Hannah Adams was a clear winner in the ladies comp with a commanding performance. She left last week's winner, Petra Clowes in her was by 3 big points.

Wednesday's Obviously Faded Golf (OFG) saw Moss Fuller (16) and Ken Sumsion (26) win the day using Fuller's Convolutated Pairing Configuration.

Brian "The match-play Mangler" McCoy, knocked Alan Ecclestone off his perch when he won on the 18th.

Looks like The Mangler only plays good golf when it is head to head.

I do hope that he and Hannah or Hank face each other across the first tee ... would be interesting to see which players turn up?

There is a rumour doing the rounds of the loose gossip lips that a certain young up and coming golfer, who's name has a striking similarity to Cravis Croadway, managed to have an airy on the first tee. I must also add that the young prick still scored 2 bloody points!

His two playing partners were said to be mildly amused and happy to knock down a free beer after the round. Thanks Cravis

Next Saturday is Stableford
