The competition at Emerald Golf Club last Saturday was South African Fourball. This is a stableford event played in pairs where partners' stableford points on each hole are multiplied for their joint score. This caused some huge variation and a great deal of tolerance when one plays well on a hole and the other doesn't.

For Phil Rundle and Dave Jennings there were no such happenings or sideways annoyed glances as they came in with a whopping 102 points to win the day to indifferent ovation from those members present.

The unlucky pairing was young, up and coming Brock Reynolds and wily old Hank Adams. They strode back to the tuck shop with the glow of winners with their 101 points only to be relegated to second place by the bolters.

Steve Town and Ray Pund had 96, Ken Hill and Conrad Whitlock 76, brothers Ryan and Dean Aitken 73 and Mark Johnson and Paul Braddock 72.

Ryan Aitken was nearest the pin on the 4th, Paul Braddock the 7th, Kameron Geeves the 12th and Peter Jones decided to overindulge by being nearest on the 13th and the pro pin on the 18th.

Irene Cranston and Daphne Mackey were clear winners in the sheelahs' event.
Irene just contacted me to admit that he and Daphne Mackey scored 21 points!!!
Thanks Irene.

One semi final of the match play championship was played between the seasoned campaigner Ross Martin and the new kid on the block Andrew Cutting. In the end it was the new kid who triumphed 6/4 to move to the next round with high expectations.

Wednesday's Obviously Fade Golf (OFG) was a stroke event and it saw Leigh Morison (20) come in first to stop his recent run of second places. Sepp Krummenacher had 65 and Graeme Fergus 68 to both fall just short.

SCORES:

Phil Rundle/Dave Jennings ... 102
